LEAGUE OF NATIONS GIVEN ENDORSEMENT BY LEGION IN STATE

MURPHY, OF BIRMINGHAM IS NAMED COMMANDER AT IN-ITIAL MEETING OF BRANCH.
Bloodworth is Honored
LOCAL MAN IS ELECTED VICE COMMANDER OVER MAL-COLM BRASSELL.

BIRMINGHAM, July 18 (Special).—Endorsement of the League of Nations, of a plan to organize the wives and mothers of men who served in the army, navy and marine corps into legion posts; of the proposed good roads program of the legislature, and of several equally as important questions was given by the Alabama branch of the American Legion assembled in the initial state convention in Birmingham yesterday afternoon.

Matt Murphy, former captain in the cavalry and a leading member of the Birmingham post, was unanimously elected state commander of the Alabama branch. The name of Colonel Bibb Graves was placed in nomination by Frank S. White Jr., also of Birmingham, but was withdrawn at the insistence of Colonel Graves.

Benjamin Bloodworth, adjutant of the Morgan county post, was named state vice commander. He was nominated by the Jefferson county delegation; and in a warm race defeated Malcolm S. Brasell, of Montgomery. Other officers named were: John W. Thompson, of Montgomery, state adjutant; Frank M. Dixon Jr., of Birmingham, state finance officer; Thomas M. Owens, of Montgomery, state historian; C. W. Whitelaw, of Lee county, master-at-arms; John W. Inzer, of Mobile, state chaplain.

Birmingham was chosen as permanent headquarters, winning over Montgomery in a spirited campaign. Anniston was selected as the next meeting place of the state convention, winning from Mobile.

The executive committee was named as follows: H. U. Fibelmann, of Mobile; M. J. Fletcher, Andalusia; John V. Denson, Opelika; C. S. Leyden, Anniston; B. M. Morris, fifth district; William J. Valden, Uniontown; W. E. James, Cullman; R. T. Simpson, Florence; H. P. Lipscomb, Bessemer; C. R. Wiggins, Jasper.

The warmest debate of the two days session was precipitated yesterday morning when the committee on constitution and by laws reported the proposed constitution. Article 2 set forth what constitutes the eligibility of members. The debate lasted three hours and the section finally was referred back to the committee with instructions to revise. Following the committee's second report the article was adopted. It provides that "no charter shall be granted except by the state executive committee, hereinafter provided for in article 3 of the constitution." The article as it now stands will be a protection against granting any charter which would be disapproved by the service men of this section.

The convention went on record as favoring government aid for the Federal employment service and the establishment of employment bureaus by each post; favoring legislation immediately to re-franchise all men who served in the military or naval forces; favoring the reorganization of the national guard. All resolutions passed by the St. Louis caucus were endorsed.

Many of the delegates left for their homes yesterday afternoon but others remained over to attend a theatre party given by the Birmingham post.

PLANE FLIES HERE BRINGING MAIL TO VISITING BIRDMEN

FLIGHT FROM CAPITAL MADE IN TWO HOURS WITHOUT STOP.

Clouds Encountered

AVIATORS FORCED TO FLY VERY LOW TO AVOID THEM.

Bringing a new magneto for Lieutenant Moran's ship and mail for the visiting aviators, a third aeroplane arrived here this morning from Montgomery. Lieut. Powell and Sgt. Seward are in charge. It will return to the aviation repair depot at Montgomery this afternoon.

The flight from the capital was made in two hours without a stop. The aviators were forced to fly low all of the way because of the low-hanging clouds they encountered on the greater part of their journey through the skies.

The arrival here of the plane with mail hung up a new record for the Albany field. It was the first time in its history it had received a ship with mail. The new magneto was placed in Lieut. Moran's machine in a few minutes after arrival.

The recruiting party, under command of Lieut. Bunting, will leave for Huntsville at 9:00 a. m. tomorrow. Any man wishing to enlist in the air service will see Lieut. Bunting or one of the Sergeants before 9:00 a. m., July 19 and they will give them all the information desired.

FANS ARE EXPECTING A "CORKING" SERIES

LAWRENCEBURG COMES MON-
DAY FOR THE FIRST OF SIX STRAIGHT GAMES.

Local fans are expecting some "corking" baseball next week, when the Albany-Decatur team meets those worthy foemen from Lawrenceburg, who have already proved such staunch defenders to their claim for the Alabama-Tennessee championship. The opening game will be played Monday on the home lot, and will be followed by others on Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday the game's aggregation will go to Lawrenceburg for a return engagement of three contests.

In its recent game at Nashville, where it won over an all-star city league team, Lawrenceburg appeared with a strengthened line-up, which included Cook, former outer gardener for the Albany-Decatur team in the Southeastern League, and later one of the hitting stars of the New York team of the American league. It is expected that Cook will be in the line-up Monday, and will do some effective clouting.

Albany-Decatur will also show a formidable line-up, and indications are they will take at least two out of three, with any kind of luck.

DAILY MAN HONORED BY AMERICAN LEGION

The Daily is justly proud of the election of a member of its staff—Benjamin Bloodworth—to the exalted post of vice-commander of the Alabama branch of the American Legion, the second highest honor within its gift. It also congratulates the Legion on its selection of Mr. Bloodworth for this responsible office, for he is enthusiastic, capable and energetic, and will work for its development into a potent force in state affairs along the right lines. Immediately after war was declared, Mr. Bloodworth rushed off to find a recruiting officer, and as soon as that duty was located promptly enlisted in the navy. He saw twenty months of active service, was three times promoted, and came home and dropped back into his old niche as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened. His selection as vice-commander gives recognition to the "gob," who is so often overlooked when service men are mentioned. Owing to the numerical preponderance of soldiers, the provincial instinct is to forget the sailors, although there were half a million of these who helped to lick the Kaiser.

THE "POOR" COAL BARONS AND THEIR TROUBLES

It is apparent (from their own statement) that the coal operators of Alabama are very much abused, and that they are barely able to keep the wolf from the door, even with coal selling at twice its former price. The general revenue bill now pending before the legislature was the vehicle that bared the secret of the financial straits of the coal barons, for it caused a very capable lobby to go to Montgomery and fight a little provision that called for a tax of 5 cents on every ton of coal mined. Mind you, only one little jitney per ton, yet a mountain of wealth and the final straw that will break the camel's back, according to these downtrodden victims of oppression. The Birmingham Age-Herald, which has sympathetically rushed to the defense of the coal and iron magnates, in a two-column headline this morning told this pitiable story: "Coal and Iron Companies Barely Able To Exist Under Present Conditions." The headline was based on the confessions of the coal and iron operators, and for this reason could not be termed misleading. These operators knew just how much it costs to mine and market a ton of coal or iron, and they know that another nickel per ton taken from their profits will rob their children of the privilege of paying the proper amount of inheritance tax.

The news story which followed the glaring headline contained the following paragraph:

Mr. Bush and Mr. DeBardeleben, both proved by their cost sheets, which were prepared under regulations of the United States fuel administration, that the net profits per ton on coal is almost negligible and that with the imposition of the taxes proposed by the pending revenue bill, to which they were speaking before the committee, it would be impossible for them to compete with other districts either in coal or iron and that serious inroads already made within the state by the operators of other states would be further extended and the market for the Alabama products to that extent curtailed.

What the Daily would like to know, and what the long-suffering public would like to know, is just how much it costs to mine a ton of coal, what the freight rate is to given destinations, how much the middleman's profit is, and why coal is one of the most expensive of life's necessities. If the operators will furnish this information, instead of handing out so much of this sympathy stuff, the ultimate consumer would know whether he is being robbed, and if so by whom. There would at least be a chance to fix the responsibility where it belongs.

The 5-cents a ton tax is wrong in principle, for it is perilously close to class legislation. There is no more reason for placing a special tax on coal and iron than there is for wresting additional revenue from the growers of cotton and potatoes. At the same time the high cost of coal is one of the problems that constantly confronts the householder as well as the manufacturer, and one on which much light might be shed.

THE "SOLDIER VOTE" FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

The result of the Democratic primary held in the Seventh Alabama congressional district, in which L. B. Rainey was nominated over three opponents, one of whom was Maj. Hartwell Davis, a hero of the world war, rather emphasized the absence of the much-discussed "soldier vote." From this distance it appears that Maj. Davis did not receive stronger support than his personality and ability entitled him to, and that neither the returned service men nor the men who stayed at home voted for him because of his war record, brilliant though that was. Mr. Rainey was an elder man and one of wider acquaintance than Maj. Davis, having served as solicitor for several terms and having twice opposed the late John L. Burnett for Congress. He was the logical candidate for the office, and he won because of this fact. The usual trend of politics marked the contest, which was not of especial significance except that it denoted that there is no maudlin desire to place returned soldiers in office. This is a very healthy state of affairs and means that men must run on their merit, and that the uniform itself will not be the open sesame to public service.

Senator Colt has also kicked out of the republican traces.

Henry Ford was not so far wrong when he admitted that he was an "ignorant idealist." Too much knowledge is often the death blow of idealism.

The Alabama Senate, by defeating the suffrage amendment, merely postponed a duty that it must perform later.

Bay Minette lynchings who have received prison sentences no doubt have acquired new ideas as to the dignity of the law.

The genial revenue bill introduced in the Alabama legislature is longer than the peace treaty. Its reading requires nine hours. In there any overburdened tax-payer who believes that such a measure could be free of "jokers?"

JUST IN PASSING

LIKED HIS RIDE
Colonel Hildreth, editor of the Albany Advertiser and dean of the local newspaper fraternity was a passenger in Lieutenant Moran's big plane yesterday afternoon. It was the Colonel's first trip into skyland. "How did you enjoy it," he was asked today. "Fine," he replied.

IN ITS INFANCY
"The American Legion is just in its infancy and it will take several years more to organize it perfectly," said R. A. Burleson, of Hartselle, commander of the Morgan county post, following his return from the state convention in Birmingham. "But the time is coming when there will not be a rural schoolhouse that does not house a unit of the Legion. It is going to be thoroughly organized in this and every other state. Its membership now is growing by leaps and bounds. It is the greatest agency for good the nation has ever known."

YELVINGTON TELLS STORY OF VICTORY

DYERSBURG MAN DECLARES 20 YEARS TROUBLES HAVE BEEN OVERCOME BY TRUTONA.

DYERSBURG, Tenn., July 17.—J. W. Yelvington, 53 years old, residing on rural route No. 2, Dyersburg, in the following interesting statement tells of the remarkable relief he gained through Trutona, the perfect tonic.

"For the past twenty years I've been suffering with inflammatory rheumatism. It seemed that every joint in my body ached—so bad at times that I could hardly stand the pain. "I want to say that I began to improve from the very first after starting to take Trutona. I feel 100 per cent better now. My joints do not ache as they did, the soreness seems to have left them. A week ago I was using crutches but today, I haven't any use for them. I'm able to get around and attend to my daily work now. Trutona is the most wonderful medicine I've ever taken and I recommend it to everyone troubled as I was."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Decatur by Decatur Drug Co., and in Albany by Preuit-Dillehay Drug Co. The J. S. DuBois, Sons & Co., wholesale distributors for this section.—Advertisement.

HERD MANAGEMENT FOR BEGINNERS.

By K. G. Baker, Beef Cattle Specialist

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

In discussing this subject, briefly various details will be taken up in the same order in which, according to the consensus of opinion of practical breeders, a beginner in the beef cattle business should consider them. The first consideration would be that of good and sufficient permanent pasture for the number of animals to be maintained. The improvement of the natural pasture should be looked after at the very beginning, so that the pasture may be made to furnish sufficient grazing for the pasture season. Find out the kind of grasses especially suited to the locality, and the most practical way to get the pasture covered with them. Do not overstock the pasture, and keep weeds down by mowing or cutting with the hoe.

The next consideration should be the winter feed supply. Plan the cropping system that a minimum production of crops will always be ample to maintain the cattle through the winter. Plant the varieties of feeds that will be the most economical when fed to beef cattle. Investigate the silo as a means for furnishing roughage for cattle; use all the unsalable products, such as corn stover, the aftermath of the hay field and unsalable hay.

Following this, a man should look to his equipment. He should have enough pasture well fenced to keep different grades of cattle separated; keeping young heifers in one, young steers in another, and the breeding herd in the third. Also have sufficient pens and shelter for these different classes of cattle in the winter. An open shed with a windbreak is sufficient for the protection of cattle in this climate.

As to the herd itself, if forced to buy cattle, buy as high grade individuals as possible, provided the price is not exorbitant. Usually for a small premium above market price, a grade of cattle can be bought which would take several generations to reach in grading up. If you already have native or scrub cattle, weed out and sell your poorer individuals. But in either case, always use pedigreed or registered bulls to sire your calf crop.

Other details that are worth mentioning are as follows:

1. Do not breed heifers before they are two years old.
2. Confine your bull so that calves will come in the Spring, preferably March or April.

JUDGMENT CORRECT DECLARES FOREMAN AT THOMAS FURNACE

HAD BEEN DISAPPOINTED SO MANY TIMES THAT HE WAS SLOW TO TAKE ON ANOTHER NEW MEDICINE.

So Decided to Try Drecto for His Stomach, Kidneys, Liver and Constipation, and it did the Work, He Declares.

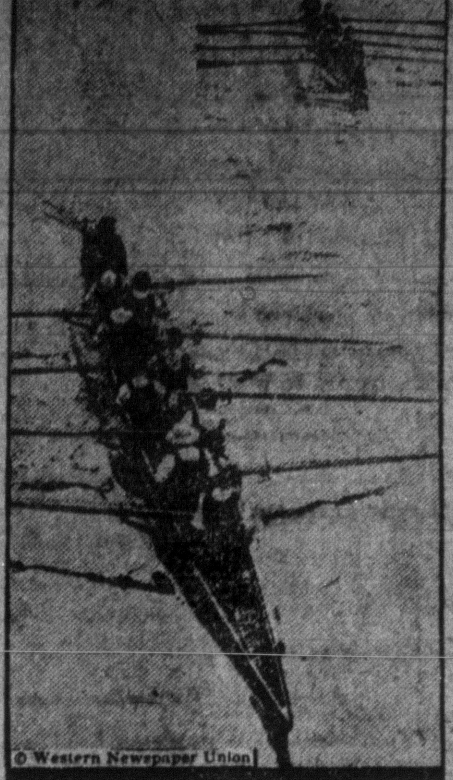

"I had just about touched bottom in my sufferings, and I knew a change had to take place soon, cause I couldn't stand much more of it," writes Mr. Wm. Gambel, the well known foreman at Thomas Furnace, who resides between Birmingham and Pratt City. Mr. Gambel has been with the Republic Co. for nine years, and is highly esteemed by the officials.

"The people who had known me for a long time realized that I was a sick man. My liver was sore to press on it, and seemed to be swollen. My back was lame, which I knew came from my kidneys. I had headaches, was nauseated, very nervous, gas filled me up and my bowels were so badly constipated that my own system poisoned itself. I've spent a lot of money and been fooled so often, while seeking relief from my sufferings, that I have been slow about buying any more lately; however, I had to do something for myself, so decided to try the Drecto, and my judgment has proved correct in taking the chance."

"Two bottles of Drecto have brought about a great change in me. It has removed the soreness over my liver, and in my back; got my bowels to acting regularly, with so much ease and comfort; no more gas collects in my stomach; the nausea and headaches have all gone, and I'm feeling like myself again. No one can doubt why I am so willing to praise this grand medicine, which has done so much good for me."

All good druggists now sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in Albany by Albany Drug Co. and in Decatur by Hilda Drug Co.—Advertisement.

PREPARE FOR WINTER GRAZING.

By D. J. Burleson, Agronomist for Extension.

There is no permanent pasture crops which furnish an abundance of grazing during the late fall and early winter. Burr clover is one of our best winter growing permanent pasture crops, but it rarely furnishes appreciable grazing before the latter part of winter. To have grazing in late fall and early winter, we must resort to some crop suitable for the production of temporary pastures. Rye is well adapted to this purpose.

Rye may safely be planted through a longer period than either of the other small grains. When planted in the latter part of August or in September, it is one of our most dependable crops for furnishing fall and winter grazing. When the object is to supply grazing, rye should be planted early. It is also well to make a heavier seeding when the crop is to be used for grazing than when it is intended to produce seed. Five pecks per acre will give good results. For seed production smaller amounts should be planted.

An excellent place to plant rye for winter grazing is in cotton middles. Very little injury will be done the rye from tramping by the cotton pickers. An ordinary three-row one-horse drill is a satisfactory implement for planting, but the seed may be sowed by hand and covered with a cultivator. Apart from the grazing furnished by rye and oats these crops protect the land from washing and leaching. Cover crops are much more needed in the South than in the North. Our winters are comparatively warm and our heavy winter rains leach out the dissolved plant food. If no crop is growing on the land to take up the food.

A Schoolhouse.
What a schoolhouse is the world, if our wits would only not play truant!—Lowell.

Calomel Today! Sick Tomorrow! I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Don't take nasty, dangerous calomel when bilious, constipated, headachy. Listen to me!

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It is harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.

Be Strong

Strength of body, strength of nerves, strength of mind, depend very largely on whether you have enough iron in your blood. The world makes way for the strong people and they generally get what they want, out of life. Pale, weak, sickly, nervous, peevish, thin, dyspeptic individuals, need iron to build them up.

ZIRON IRON TONIC

will put iron into your blood and help restore your health and strength. Eminent physicians agree as to the vital need of iron by the run-down system. ZIRON will give it to you.

J. E. Clifton, R. F. D. 3, Lyons, Ga., writes: "Last summer I had typhoid fever and had hemorrhages... and my health was wrecked. I seemed to be unable to get my strength back. I had no appetite. I had no energy. I didn't think I was ever going to get well. My knees were weak, my flesh felt clammy. I was in a pretty bad condition. I heard of ZIRON and what a good tonic and strengthener it was and I sent for it at once. It helped me, I began to improve, and soon felt much better and stronger. My nerves were strengthened and I felt like doing something. We have nothing but words of praise for ZIRON." Try ZIRON.

Make Best Use of Time.

Every man has the same chance in the use of time. One may be faster than another, but there are usually compensating conditions that equalize things. Not always to the swift is the race. Many a tortoise has beaten hares in life. It's the use of the hours that counts. Make the minutes hum with well directed industry and you have a profitable life in the making. It's every man's right to make the most of himself. He does this by his use of the minutes.

Where Gold is Found.

India's production of gold is principally from Mysore. Russia is the oldest gold-producing country in the world. Mining is carried on principally in the Ural mountains, but climatic conditions impede progress. Mexico has many mines, but labor troubles have a restrictive influence on the industry. Other countries which produce gold in small quantities are China, Japan, Chile, Peru, Persia and Hungary.

To Keep Young.

The great enemy of youthfulness is the drying-up process, and this is why we should not only keep as much as possible with the young but should enter into their joys, their plays, with zest and enthusiasm. We should romp and play with them, interest ourselves in the things that delight them, instead of pushing children away from us and restraining them all the time, regarding them as a nuisance and a bore. Children were given us to keep us youthful, to keep our sympathies fresh.—Exchange.

DAILY RELIGIOUS EDITOR TAKES HIS FIRST VOYAGE HEAVENWARD

By J. E. BLAIR
Daily Religious Editor.

The flights were taken from aviation field yesterday afternoon by J. M. Bunting, who is the flying officer of the company of aviators now visiting the Twin Falls. The following statement is given by Bunting: "I am glad to say that the service is being given to the public in this vicinity. The office is located at 201 on account of slack work, or shut down. In addition to your board, room and clothes, you will receive upon their work, which means, free medical attention. All your pay, board, room rent, and is clear. All men who enlist in Alabama will be assigned to the aviation department at Montgomery. And this field is permanent. All men who have had previous service may enlist for one year. Men without previous experience enlist for three years."

"Don't delay," said Lieut. Bunting. "Already over half the required number have been accepted. Join now, and learn a trade at your government's expense. A trade which is a 'comer.' Don't let the other fellow get ahead of you because of your own indecision."

Interest Centers Around the Flight of Editor Hildreth

The flights yesterday started near the closing moments of the work of the day shift, at the local railroad shops where many hundreds of men are employed.

Many of these employees flocked to the field and were on hand to see Editor C. J. Hildreth, an octogenarian and then some, take his first sky ride. Without any inquiries from Flight Master Lieut. Moran, as to the strength of his heart action, Mr. Hildreth was strapped tight into the back seat of the tried and true Curtiss machine, the signal was given, and away went age and youth on an air voyage which ended "delightfully," to use Colonel Hildreth's expression, as he landed safely from the car and touched foot on terra firma.

As quickly as the aged man's special headgear could be removed, he was ushered into Mrs. W. R. Smith's waiting automobile, and was soon speeding again, but this time much nearer the ground than before.

Answers Made to Numerous Inquiries

Many questions have been asked the writer concerning his air ride, taken prior to that of Colonel Hildreth. The first thing learned on nearing the whirling propeller, which had been started by that prince of air drivers, Lieut. Moran, "to warm up the motor," as he said, was why such a small piece of moving timber could be reasonably expected to propel over a thousand pound heavier-than-air machine, and drive it through the air despite certain laws of gravitation. This "learning" got into my head when it was found desirable to hold to something to keep the motor-driven propeller from blowing me away. I had heard that enough power can overcome anything, and I sure felt some power when the motor started the propeller.

Like "Duffy's malt" saved a life once, it is said, Mr. Moran's chewing gum saved mine yesterday. Not the piece he was chewing, but the one he gave me to chew. Like all the other members of our race, I am a born imitator, and as the master-flyer began to chew, it bethought me to chew also. And besides "foot-log knowledge" (when crossing streams you are expected to chew sweet gum tree gum, according to my father) taught me that to chew something would encourage presence of mind and keep off dizziness. That present of Wrigley's was kept in constant motion throughout the flight, which lasted between twenty five and thirty minutes.

Another thing that helped some, was that I was kept busy at work, some of the time. Lieut. Bunting had given me a large stack of aviation recruiting circulars to distribute; Hugh Ballew had given me a number of editorials advocating the consolidation of Albany and Decatur, and Lieut. Moran had given me the following note countersigned by himself, all for "free distribution": "To All Young Men up to the age of 45. Greeting: 'Why not enter the Aviation business with your Uncle Samuel immediately if not sooner? Yours truly,

"Uncle Sam."
Lieut. Moran.

Of course everybody will just vow that my head was always safe under the "hood" when I tell the following story, but I will tell it anyway, as what did not happen to the slip of paper, proves beyond a doubt what smooth riding an airplane furnishes. Here is the story: In my eagerness to get started in the flight by 3:45 p. m. (I might have lost the 3:44 promised me to fly if I did not get "up" by 3:45) while shaving, my face was cut as badly that a slip of newspaper had to be attached there to stop the bleed. Well, in all the flight, in which some stunts were done, the slip of paper was not disturbed in the least, though it was hanging quite loosely.

Now, I will deny that my head stayed under the wind shield. It did not. Just as I kept my head out of the first train I ever rode on, so I was looking all I had time to yesterday.

The expression "daring aviator" doesn't work in these days, especially in view of Lieut. Bunting's statement that according to the miles traveled the air service has fewer casualties than the railroads.

Of course every one read the enlightening story written by Benjamin Bloodworth, two days ago, on his recent experience in the air. I endorse every thing Benjamin said as being true in my case. So added to account there remains only a few more observations.

An old habit of not waiting until spoken to before speaking, overcame me yesterday, and I talked to the air motorian. As I gained confidence that air sea-sickness was not to be mine, I urged him to do any old stunt but I guess he was wiser than I, for he did not do the "tail spin." Most of the time, when not pitching out "propaganda," I would look over my right arm, the end of which was holding tight with all the instinct born of the time we all lived in trees. But once it occurred to me that I might see some news item by looking over my left arm. It was then that I saw the shadow of the great mechanism in which we were riding. It was no so large, and it reminded me, in shape, of the "snake doctors" we country boys used to see back in North Carolina.

The most pleasant sight, aside from Lieut. Moran sitting steady in the boat, was how clean the cities appeared. I wondered 'did distance lend enchantment to the view'? The only unpleasant thought that came while "above" was that there appeared two cities "where there ought to be but one!"

Visitors Leave Tomorrow

The following are the nine aviation visitors now in the cities: Lieut. Moran, pilot; Lieut. J. M. Bunting, general manager and publicity man; Sergeants Roth, Archie B. Pace, L. A. Seigal, M. V. Mabry, S. Fashie, H. F. Cracker; and H. F. Snider. Another one of Uncle Sam's boys who is traveling with the aviators is Major Meyers, state recruiting officer for the U. S. Regular army. All mentioned, with the exception of Major Meyers are expected to leave for Athens tomorrow afternoon.

PURCHASING NURSERY STOCK.

By Rutledge Field, Deputy Inspector.

Prepared by Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

The success of any orchard depends on the nursery stock that is purchased. The most excellent care cannot make an inferior variety produce good fruit. Any one who plants a tree should make absolutely sure that he has purchased the very best stock obtainable. Having obtained this first-class stock, the orchardist has an incentive to give his trees the best of care for he is sure of the results. If trees are bought from an unreliable nursery or agent, fruit growing becomes a most hazardous proposition for, after years of hard work and expense you may find your trees to be worthless seedlings. Stock should only be purchased from a reliable nursery which is using bearing trees of known merit for propagation stock.

Standard varieties of proven worth, that are adapted to your section, or your particular soil, should be selected. Valuable information on this point can often be gathered by observing varieties that are growing in your neighborhood. The reliable nurseryman can also help you along this line, but make absolutely sure that his reputation is beyond reproach.

Only trees that are free from fungus and insect injury should be accepted for planting. Injury from these sources are often permanent or may kill the tree after being planted.

The fall planting of your stock will give the better results in the long run. The trees have a good chance to become established before spring growth begins, and a young tree does not receive the set-back in transplanting that takes place in moving an older tree. The possible higher price of the best trees should not influence the grower to purchase the cheaper stock for in this case the best is the cheapest. If a large commercial orchard is to be planted, the orchardist should visit the nursery, see the stock and meet the nurseryman, so that he will know in advance what he is getting.

There are four points one should keep in mind in purchasing nursery stock:

1. Trees from certified stock.
2. Trees free from fungus or insect injury.
3. Trees of standard varieties adapted to your section.
4. Trees that are young and thrifty and to be planted in the fall.

The Alabama Extension Service, Horticulture Department, Auburn, Alabama, is especially anxious to increase the planting of orchards throughout the state and stands willing to help the fruit grower in every possible way.

Monuments, in Shape of Ball Diamonds Left Behind in France by the Doughboys

By JACK VEIOCK,
International News Service Sport
Editor.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The American Doughboy when the last of his kind finally bids farewell to occupied territory in Germany and the fields of France, Belgium and Luxemburg, is going to leave some monuments behind that will serve as reminders of his visit abroad for some time to come.

Those monuments will be in the shape of baseball diamonds, scattered far and wide over the countryside of the lands we have mentioned and left as a reminder that the Yanks, who came and helped to conquer the Hun, were lovers of sport.

Hundreds of baseball diamonds laid out by the fighting men of the American Army will serve as propaganda for the great national pastime abroad as nothing else could serve. The people of France, Belgium and even Germany evidenced interest in the game, according to dozens of returning war workers who had the opportunity to visit widely separated sections. The French, while they may be long in adopting the game as a pastime of their own, evinced a willingness to learn. As Johnny Evers said when he returned after serving in France for the Knights of Columbus, "even the long-whiskered grandpas got into the game on the corner lots when the opportunity was offered."

The aims of the various organizations that operated in France during the war concentrated on making for the welfare of our troops, demanded the introduction of sport—for sport to the fighting man of those days was like comic opera or burlesque to the tired business man. The Knights of Columbus went in stronger for sports that appealed to the great majority of Doughboys than any other individual organization. Something of what they managed to do for our fighters is told in the following bulletin issued from the New York headquarters:

"It was the K. of C. who first realized the necessity of sending a man to France who had played baseball and knew how to teach it. That man was Johnny Evers. He not only paved the way for success for the game in the A. E. F., but encouraged the sport among the soldiers of the Allied nations. He staged games with enemy aeroplanes swooping overhead, and was placed at the head of the department managing ball games, and he gathered about him a number of stars from the big leagues. Bill Coughlin, former captain of the Detroit Tigers, was one who assisted. He organized a team in Southern France, and in a month's time captured the honors in that section. Later he went to Coblenz, where he coached the Army of Occupation champion team. Pete Noonan, of the old Philadelphia Athletics, developed a strong team at Esch, and was later one of the umpires of the A. E. F. finals. Tommy Dowd, another big leaguer, developed the Fourth Division league. Jim Fogarty, former manager of the Jersey City team, managed the American Embarkation Centre team, and Jack Barry, the old New York Giant star, assisted in K. of C. baseball activities. John Carroll, Tommy O'Mara and J. B. Kerin, one-time umpire in the National League, held the indicator in the soldier games.

"The program of the K. of C. boxing chief, J. J. Carey, provided amusement as well as exercise for the enlisted men. He pitted French boxers against the best in the A. E. F., and to the surprise of the American boys the French made an impression which was hardly the popular idea of their fistie prowess. Sam Fitzpatrick, who twenty years before brought Peter Jackson to France, and later visited Paris with Kid Lavigne, discovered that the French could fight with their fists this time. Before, they used their feet continually.

"Boxers and fight promoters of national reputation conducted bouts for the K. of C., and approximately a million soldiers saw the bouts in Paris, Coblenz, Le Mans and other centres. Alex McClean, K. of C. director with the Third Army, alone staged 400 bouts, Billy Roche, Danny Dunn, Biz Mackey, Eddie Conway, Frank Flynn, Judge Duffy, Tommy McFarland and Eddie O'Rourke were big factors in the success of the programme.

"The greatest race ever staged in France was a K. of C. marathon from Chateau-Thierry over shell-torn roads to the Place de la Corcorde, Paris, which was won by Matthew Lynch, of Newark, N. J. Owen Merrick handled the K. of C. Swimming meets of the A. E. F., and Bill McCabe, another K. of C. instructor, was the first to suggest the international regatta recently held."

Ancient Place of Worship.

What is said to be the oldest place of continuous religious worship in the world is at Tai Shan, Shantung province, China. The place is near the town of Tainfu, and is located amidst cultivated fields on the bank of a small stream. A shrine was built over the spot many centuries ago, long before the coming of Christ. China claims an antiquity of 80,000 years.

Peculiar Bush Beans.

Careful tests have shown that certain kinds of bush beans which as a rule bear one good crop of early beans and then cease to produce, will, when started in flowpots under glass, produce a fine crop much earlier than those planted in the open soil, and continue to produce beans all through the summer up until the vines are cut by frost in autumn. It is supposed the age of the plant makes the difference, as the one started under glass is older before it bears any beans at all.

More of the Same Kind.

A fellow who loses his temper seems to know just where to get another just as bad.
